"My interests off the bike include studying a double degree, scrapbooking, junk journaling, drawing, going to the beach"

Alyssa Polites has established herself as one of Australia's leading endurance cyclists across both track and road. As a teenager, Polites grabbed international attention when she finished on the elite podium at the 2022 RoadNats. Two challenging years in the professional peloton with GreenEdge Cycling followed. Her attention returned to the track in 2025 and Polites quickly reintegrated into the ARA Australian Cycling Team women's endurance program. She's continued to deliver strong performances at national and international level since then:

- Gold medal – Team pursuit at the 2026 UCI Track World Cup
- Silver medal – Madison at the 2026 UCI Track World Cup
- Five-time track national champion

Alongside her track success, Polites has excelled on the road:

- Queen of the Mountain – 2025 Women's Tour Down Under
- U23 road race national champion in 2022

proudest moment of my career so far

Coming back and riding with my girls again (!!!)

what a successful commonwealth games looks like for me

Happiness all around, positive vibes, bling is a cherry on top!
